- 287 Titanic Interest: a handwritten letter by Eva Miriam Hart, addressed to a friend called Margery in regards to her mother dying, alongside a related newspaper clipping.
- Note: Eva was 7 years old when she sailed with her parents on White Star Line's "RMS Titanic" in April 1912. The family was emigrating to Canada via New York to start a new life. In Eva's biography "Shadow of the Titanic - a survivor's story" Eva writes about her mother Esther's apprehension about the journey. She writes, in response to her father's question "...why don't you want to go?", her mother replied "Because this is the ship that they say is unsinkable and that is flying in the face of the Almighty. That ship will never reach the other side". How true that was.....
- With that premonition in her mind Esther insisted on staying awake each night fully dressed before the fateful collision with the iceberg, and that helped ensure their survival. Eva was put into a lifeboat with her mother by her father who sadly did not survive. After witnessing the tragic sinking of the Titanic, Eva was eventually picked up by the Carpathia. She was one of only 492 passengers who survived.
- They returned to England following the disaster. Eva moved to Australia in 1928 when her mother died. She returned to the UK three years later to live in Chadwell Heath. In later years, through performing together, she became very friendly with my aunt Marjory who lived in Hutton Mount in Essex. Marjory's mother lived with Marjory and when she died, Eve wrote this friendly letter of condolence. My aunt kept it together with the annotated newspaper cutting of April 1979 and I inherited it when she died.

- 351 A Second World War period enamel sign from the clinic of Jewish doctor Dr. Oscar Israel Hirschberg, marked with a Star of David inside a yellow circle above 'Dr. Oscar Israel Hirschberg 9-10, 31/2 -51/2, Sonntags 10-11 Zur ärztlichen Behandlung ausschliesslich von Juden berechtigt', 20 x 15cms.
- Notes: After completing his studies in Berlin, Oscar Hirschberg began working in 1889, initially in the city of Bromberg, which was then in the Prussian Province of Posen. In 1920 Bromberg, now Bydgoszcz, became part of Poland, perhaps one reason the doctor moved his office to Berlin in 1921. The licenses of the more than 3,000 Jewish doctors practising medicine in the German Reich expired in October 1938. Starting in 1933, it had become increasingly difficult for them to earn a living from their profession due to anti-Jewish boycotts, local initiatives by professional organisations, and discriminatory regulations. In the autumn of 1938, only 709 of the doctors considered Jewish under the Reich Citizenship Law were granted special licenses to continue practising medicine, and they were only permitted to treat Jewish patients and their own wives and children. The special licenses could be revoked at any time. The Jewish practitioners were also prohibited from calling themselves "doctors," and their offices had to be identified accordingly. Doctors in "mixed marriages" were often the ones to receive special licenses. Likewise, Oscar Hirschberg survived the Shoah thanks to his non-Jewish wife. He continued practising medicine in Berlin until his death in 1946.
