- 1062 Robert Loomes 'Robin': a limited-edition stainless steel cased wristwatch, no.45 (from a series of 100), the matt rhodium dial with Roman numerals and subsidiary seconds, fitted with a manual wind Smiths cal 12.15 movement which has been refurbished and engraved, the case 38mm wide, on a black leather strap, with original box, case, a certificate dated October 2013, and booklet.
Notes: Seemingly, after attempting to first make watches with imported movements, Robert Loomes stumbled upon the trove of cal 12.15 movements in the recesses of a dark cupboard. The 12.15 movement had already won a significant place in horological folklore as the first to conquer Everest, on the wrist of Sir Edmund Hillary in 1953. Hillary famously wrote to Smiths stating 'I carried your watch to the Summit. It worked perfectly'. This piece is entirely English-made and manufactured. It is winding on and ticking over at time of inspection but not checked for time keeping.
£1,500-2,500
